

1 (Currently Amended)

An article of jewelry for remembering the starting hour(s) for one or more an event~~[[()]]s[()]]~~ in the course of a day, comprising:

a set of primary links which are provided with a set of sequential, hour of the day indicators, a visually unique indicator for each link for visually indicating the hour of the day associated with said primary link, a set of connecting links, said connecting links being spaced between said primary links and together with said primary links forming a bracelet, at least one of either said set of said primary links and said set of connecting links being provided with at least one rotatable knob having two or more visually different marker faces, said marker faces being turnable by said knob while said bracelet is worn by a wearer so that a selected and different face is viewable to the wearer of said article of jewelry in association with said link to indicate to the wearer which one or more of said primary link(s) for the associated hour(s) of the day corresponds to said one or more starting hours for each of said an event~~[[()]]s[()]]~~ to be remembered wherein said set of hour of the day indicators are Roman numerals and said set of connecting links are also provided with a second set of hour of the day indicators in the visually readable format corresponding to an analog watch face.

2-8. (Cancelled)

9. (Previously Presented) An article of jewelry as claimed in Claim 1 wherein said at least one rotatable knob comprises four faces, each face having a different colored stone thereon from the other stones on said knob.

10-11. (Cancelled)

12. An article of jewelry as claimed in Claim 1 wherein each of said at least one rotatable knob has four faces, each of which is provided with a colored gem.

13-17. (Cancelled)

18. (Previously Presented) An article of jewelry as claimed in Claim 1 further comprising a biasing mechanism comprising an axle of square cross-section for said rotatable knob and a resilient spring bearing against a flat surface of said axle for ensuring that said at least one rotatable knob is maintained in place until manually moved into a new orientation.

19-22. (Cancelled)

23. (Currently Amended)

A bracelet for remembering the starting hour[[~~( )~~s[~~( )~~]] for one or more ~~an~~ event[[~~( )~~s[~~( )~~]] in the course of the day, comprising:

a series of primary links connected to form a bracelet, each primary link comprising ~~an~~ a visually readable format corresponding to an analog watch face design, the series of primary links having a set of sequential, hour of the day indicators, a visually unique indicator for each primary link for visually indicating a sequential ~~the segmented~~ portion or all of the hours of the day, when all of said links are viewed;

and each primary link being further provided with at least one rotatable rosette having two or more visually different colored stones, such that only one selected stone, at any one time is primarily viewable by the wearer to indicate to the wearer which one or more primary link bearing an hour(s) of the day indicator corresponds to the one or more an event to be remembered and further wherein said indicators for said primary links are provided with Roman numerals to indicate the starting hour for which said one or more events may occur in a day.

24. (Cancelled)

25. (Cancelled)

26. (Previously Presented)

A bracelet as claimed in Claim 23 wherein said rotatable rosette has four distinct colored stones to indicate to the wearer two or more levels of importance or types of events to be remembered.

27. (Previously Presented)

A bracelet as claimed in Claim 23 wherein each of said rosettes are held in place by a resilient spring leaf.

28. (Previously Presented)

A bracelet as claimed in Claim 23 wherein said analog watch face design and said indicators are comprised of diamonds and different colored stones.

29. (Previously Presented)

A bracelet as claimed in Claim 23 wherein said primary links are made from precious metal.

30. (Previously Presented)

An article of jewelry as claimed in Claim 1 wherein said primary links are made from precious metal.

31. (Cancelled)

32. (Previously Presented)

~~An article of costume jewelry~~ bracelet as claimed in Claim 23 wherein said bracelet is costume jewelry.

33. (Previously Presented)

An article of ~~costume~~ jewelry as claimed in Claim 1 wherein said article is costume jewelry.